

VOA Broadcasting in Cantonese

The VOA Cantonese Service reaches an audience of elite entrepreneurs, businessmen, soldiers and students as well as aspiring rural residents in south China who either do not understand Mandarin well or prefer their native dialect. The service also reaches Cantonese speakers in Hong Kong, Macau, Vietnam, Australia, and other Chinese communities where Cantonese is more widely spoken than Mandarin.

Quick Facts

Established:	February 1939
Target Area:	Cantonese speakers in southern China, Hong Kong, and Macau and traditional Chinese script users throughout the world
Weekly Audience:	4.8% among 15 to 64 year-olds in Hong Kong
Radio Programming:	14 hours per week
Video Programs:	47 minutes per week

Programs and additional features available at:

www.VOACantonese.com

Facebook:
/voagd

Twitter:
@voacantonese

YouTube:
/voacantonese

SoundCloud:
/voacantonese

Mobile Apps:
iTunes
Google Play

Podcasts:
Audio and Video Podcasts Available on iTunes

Audio Now: Radio by Phone:
Dial In via phone

Listen via Streamer App:
Android
IOS

Programs and Features

Radio

News in Brief: 5 minutes of news at the top of the hour and news updates each half hour during the 2-hour daily program, with a focus on U.S.-China relations and important international news.

Windows to the World: A 25-minute radio segment repeated four times within the 2-hour daily show. It includes interviews and expert analysis on U.S., China and world affairs.

Popular American: A 5-minute English teaching radio segment, four times a week. A situational dialogue teaching popular American idioms and slang not usually found in the dictionary.

TV

American Report: A 5-minute weekly feature program that includes the latest developments in science, medicine, arts and entertainment.

Daily Video News: A 5-minute round up of the latest news. Published daily on our website, YouTube and Facebook.

VOA60 World: A daily one-minute headline news segment covering major world developments.